Nov 2
Thurs.
The Inaugural Afro-Isthmus Symposium

The Inaugural Afro-Isthmus Symposium will bring together scholars whose work seeks to bring visibility to people of African descent in Mexico and Central America as well to the Afro-Latinx experience in the US. The program includes invited speakers and faculty from across campus, including the UCLA César E. Chávez Department of Chicana/o and Central American Studies and the Latin American Studies Program. RSVP here

Location: James West Alumni Center - Collins Room
Event website: https://www.chicano.ucla.edu/events/conference-inaugural-afro-isthmus-symposium

---

Nov 4
Sat.
Reservation Dogs Screening

From co-creators and executive producers Sterlin Harjo and Taika Waititi, FX's Reservation Dogs is a landmark half-hour dramedy that follows the exploits of four Indigenous teenagers in rural Oklahoma. Join us for a screening of two acclaimed episodes and an in-person conversation with Sterlin Harjo and co-executive producer-director Tazbah Rose Chavez.

Location: Billy Wilder Theater at the Hammer Museum
Event website: https://cinema.ucla.edu/events/2023/11/04/reservation-dogs

---

Nov 9
Thurs.
"California's Future is Clockedin: The Experiences of Young Workers"

Join us for a webinar about a new report from the UCLA Labor Center on young workers in California. This online event will feature a lively discussion between researchers, educators, policymakers, labor leaders, and young workers.

---

Nov 14
Tues.
Tribute to Dr. Min Zhou with Appreciation to Walter & Shirley Wang

Join us to celebrate Professor Min Zhou’s 15 years of service as the Walter and Shirley Wang Chair in US-China Relations and Communications (2009-2024), as well as her recent induction into The American Academy of Arts and Sciences and The National Academy of Sciences.

Location: UCLA Faculty Club - Morrison Room
RSVP here
Nov 15
Wed.  7:30 PM  AISC

An Indigenous Present: Indigeneity in Made in L.A. 2023

Location: Hammer Museum
Event website: https://hammer.ucla.edu/programs-events/2023/indigenous-present-indigeneity-made-la-2023

Nov 15
Wed.  12–1:30 PM  AASC

Oceanic Studies Book Forum

The legacy of settler colonialism in Oceania, specifically Guam and Hawai‘i, is a complex history that binds the two distinct archipelagos together. Join authors Alfred Flores (Tip of the Spear: Land, Labor, and U.S. Settler Militarism in Guåhan, 1944-1962) and Christen Sasaki (Pacific Confluence: Fighting over the Nation in 19th Century Hawai‘i), and moderator Genevieve Carpio, as they explore these multifaceted connections through the scope of settler military occupation, imperial jurisdiction, and cultural transformation.

Location: James West Alumni Center - Founders Room
Zoom is available due to limited seating capacity. The Zoom webinar link will be sent to you via Eventbrite email a few days before the forum. RSVP here

Nov 19
Sun.  5–6:15 PM  AISC

Curator’s Choice: Project 1521 and the Florentine Codex

The approaching quincentennial of the conquest of Mexico offers many lessons for us today. A vital document of that cataclysmic era is The General History of the Things of New Spain—aka the Florentine Codex—a massive, 2,000-page guide to 16th century central Mexico. Created by Nahua scholars and artists under the direction of a Spanish Franciscan friar and in the wake of the Spanish invasion, it was completed during a devastating epidemic caused by the viruses introduced to the region by the conquistadors.

Location: UCLA Fowler Museum